Tom Clark – “WGN TV 9 Teacher of the Month”Tom Clark has been a teacher at Lake Central High School since 1982. His special style of teaching whereby students create History has a tremendous impact in the lives of his students. In addition to teaching Advanced Placement History, Tom sponsors the Interact Club, a junior Rotary Club which encourages students to place the needs of others above their own. Recently, for a variety of reasons, Tom’s students nominated him for WGN TV 9 teacher of the month and he was honored with the award. The link to view the 3-1/2 minute segment is available on our web page. Thank you Tom for all you continue to do for the students of Lake Central High School.b. Teacher of the Year Award: To become a finalist for Lake Central Teacher of the Year out of over 500 teachers is a remarkable accomplishment. At this time we would like to recognize 3 finalists who were not selected by the committee but whose accomplishments this year have been outstanding.i. Finalists:Karen Brann, Lake Central High School: Karen gives 110% to her program and students. She has gone above and beyond this school year by coaching all the special Olympic bowling and track teams as well as the West Lake Basketball teams. Karen also gives after school services to many of our home bound students. She is always willing to support fellow teachers at the High School as well as the other structured learning programs at Clark, Homan and in Munster

Bob Gustas, Clark Middle School: For as long as I have known Bob, he has approached his teaching with tons of energy. He is excited about teaching the kids every day, and the kids know it. He sets a positive tone to the school environment. Bob goes above and beyond to help his students. This is evident by the volume of students he has on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. The kids love him. He develops a great rapport with them. Bob is also great with using different methods of teaching the students. For example he uses Live Scribe which he makes available to students through RDS or My Big Campus. This allows the students to access the lesson when they are working on homework or if they have been absent. Bob is also using this technology for the summer math program he helped design this year.

Nancy Mackowiac, Protsman Elementary School: Nancy has continually embraced an approach to teaching that encompasses students, staff and the community groups which contributes greatly to the success of our school. For students, Nancy shows great concern, love, and respect for them as a class, and as individuals. She is always encouraging and inspiring them to do their best. Students always have fond memories of being in her class. For her fellow staff members, the hours she spends on preparing lessons, activities, and projects with, and for, her team, is countless. Not only is she a member of our staff, but a leader on many committees. For our community, Nancy also tries to involve the parents and our school community in her lessons. This year she began a reading project, uniting the school and our students' families together. This project is so wonderful that it inspired other teachers in other schools to do the same activity.

ii. This year's winner...

Linda Pawlak, Kolling Elementary: Every educator knows there is so much more to a teacher's job besides just teaching the information. I have yet to meet a teacher such as Linda that is as caring and dedicated to their students' general well being. Linda understands her students, knows their environment and home life, and is willing to do whatever it takes to help them succeed at school. She has purchased healthy snacks for students during testing weeks, gloves to cover their hands during cold weather, and even clothing for her students with her own money. The third grade team itself is very new this year at Kolling with three teachers new to the grade level. Linda has taken it upon herself to help with content, field trips, and every other responsibility that has come up to help the rest of us ease into our first year in third grade. I do not know what I would have done without all her help this year. She has become the "mom" that our team needed this year. Please put your hands together for the 2014-15 Lake Central Teacher of the Year, Linda Pawlak!
